Assim, considerou-se necessário esclarecer o seguinte: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. No Art.º 11.º, N.º 2 do Regulamento dos Doutoramentos da Faculdade de Motricidade Humana (Regulamento n.º 857/2010, D.R N.º 229 de 25 de Novembro de 2010, 2.ª série) está escrito o seguinte: “A aceitação da tese está dependente do candidato ter já um artigo decorrente do trabalho de Doutoramento aceite ou publicado numa revista com Fator de Impacto (ISI) estabelecido no ano de publicação ou revistas indexadas na ISI que constem em lista aprovada pelo Conselho Científico.” 2. Do ponto anterior conclui-se que o Conselho Científico poderá aprovar, sob proposta dos coordenadores de especialidade, uma lista de revistas indexadas na ISI, nos casos em que tal se considerar justificado. 3. A necessidade de recorrer a um conjunto de periódicos científicos indexados na ISI mas sem

	fator de impacto deverá, por isso, ser circunstanciadamente provada, tendo como base limitações importantes na possibilidade de publicação na área de especialidade em causa. No seguimento destas considerações, foi decidido solicitar aos coordenadores de especialidade a reformulação das listas propostas, na seguinte perspetiva: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Só é necessário proceder a uma proposta de publicações quando se considera que o conjunto de revistas com fator de impacto disponíveis para a área de especialidade em causa, numa visão suficientemente abrangente da mesma área, é inequivocamente insuficiente, pondo em causa a possibilidade de os estudantes de doutoramento entregarem as suas teses respeitando o regulamento. 2. Caso isso se verifique, de acordo com o coordenador de uma especialidade, deverá ser feita uma justificação pormenorizada da situação, após o que se deverá propor uma lista de revistas indexadas na ISI mas sem fator de impacto, no sentido de cumprir o Art.º 11, N.º 2 do Regulamento dos Doutoramentos da Faculdade de Motricidade Humana. 3. Caso o coordenador de especialidade considere que não haverá condições para cumprir o referido no ponto 2., deverá justificar essa posição de modo a que seja possível ao Conselho Científico discutir eventuais alternativas.

Resumo	Body, Movement and Dance in Psychotherapy is an international, peer-reviewed journal exploring the relationship between body and mind and focusing on the significance of the body and movement in the therapeutic setting. It is the only scholarly journal wholly dedicated to the growing fields of body (somatic) psychotherapy and dance movement therapy. The body is increasingly being recognized as a vehicle for expression, insight and change. The journal encourages broad and in-depth discussion of issues relating to research activities, theory, clinical practice, professional development and personal reflections.

Resumo	Cultural Studies is an international journal which explores the relation between cultural practices, everyday life, material, economic, political, geographical and historical contexts. It fosters more open analytic, critical and political conversations by encouraging people to push the dialogue into fresh, uncharted territory. It also aims to intervene in the processes by which the existing techniques, institutions and structures of power are reproduced, resisted and transformed. Cultural Studies understands the term 'culture' inclusively rather than exclusively, and publishes essays which encourage significant intellectual and political experimentation, intervention and dialogue. Special issues focus on specific topics, often not traditionally associated with cultural studies, and occasional issues present a body of work from a particular national, ethnic or special tradition. The journal represents the truly international and interdisciplinary nature of contemporary work in cultural studies, and since its inception in 1987, has reflected the discipline in becoming ever more global in scope and perspective(s). Cultural Studies welcomes work covering a range of topics and styles, and invites articles, reviews, critiques, photographs

Resumo	History and Anthropology continues to address the intersection of history and social sciences, focusing on the interchange between anthropologically-informed history, historically-informed anthropology and the history of ethnographic and anthropological representation. It is now widely perceived that the formerly dominant ahistorical perspectives within anthropology severely restricted interpretation and analysis. Much recent work has therefore been concerned with social change and colonial history and the traditional problems such as symbolism, have been rethought in historical terms. History and Anthropology publishes articles which develop these concerns, and is particularly interested in linking new substantive analyses with critical perspectives on anthropological discourse. The journal publishes studies of: economic, religious and linguistic change; European and non-European colonial systems; transformations of art and material culture; gender in history and culture; encounters with and images of "others"; the influences of anthropological representations upon indigenous consciousness and culture; the various contributions of anthropology to colonial practice; and the development of

Resumo	The journal Music and Arts in Action (MAiA) emerges from international, cross-disciplinary work that takes a wider, holistic approach in researching the dynamic role of music and the arts in social life and cultural experience. Cutting-edge work in this area considers how aesthetic experiences and artistic forms are unconsciously, semi-consciously and actively used by individuals and groups to structure social relations, situations, environments and action. Simply put, how, when and where do music and art do something, how do music and art matter?

Resumo	Participations is an on-line Journal devoted to the strengthening and development of the fields of audience and reception studies. It has been developed because we recognise that these fields are not at present well-supported within the broad academic communities. There are few undergraduate courses and even fewer postgraduate courses which emphasise this work. Only a small number of research students work in this area, compared to other kinds of work on all the many forms of cultural and media expression. Yet we believe that the findings of audience and reception work are of crucial importance to all our fields – not least because claims about the audience are so frequently embedded within other kinds of work, and within public discourses about media and culture. This Journal aims to contribute to the strengthening and expansion of our field, by: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * publishing research from many approaches, without the limitations on length and presentation of evidence which can cramp and weaken such work; * encouraging open debate between different approaches and methodologies;

Resumo	roots&routes is a magazine with an editorial vision announced by its editorial board, which guarantees the quality and coherence of its contents. We consider it crucial to maintain an ongoing receptivity towards any submission of quality, provided it corresponds with the final vision shared among the editors. We therefore not only solicit work from artists and scholars, but also encourage submissions from contributors working in contexts that we do not know directly. roots&routes announces a Call For Submission, asking artists and scholars to submit proposals, beginning with the magazine's theme for the upcoming quarter. Submissions should be sent in the form of an abstract, with a maximum of 350 words, to the following email address: info@roots-routes.org, with the subject heading "Article Submission." Abstracts written in English, Italian, French, Portuguese or Spanish are acceptable. In the case of interest on the part of the editorial board, an email requesting the full paper will be sent to the author of the abstract. Resumo	Theatre, Dance and Performance Training (TDPT) is a twice-yearly, peer-reviewed journal which acts as a research forum for practitioners, academics, creative artists and pedagogues interested in training in all its complexity and across cultures. The journal is dedicated to revealing the vital and diverse processes of training and their relationship to performance making, including those from the past, from the present, and into the future. This diversity is reflected in the journal's international scope and interdisciplinary form and focus. TDPT acts as an outlet for documenting and analysing primary materials relating to regimes of performer training as well as encouraging discursive contributions in a range of critical and creative formats. It provides a valuable meeting-point for practitioner-researchers wanting to know more about training before, beneath, beyond and within performance.
